Grandma's Suitcase, a Heritage Presentation

Come take a step back in time and reminisce about days and fashions gone by.

Hear stories from the 1550 to present. See fashion from the 1800's to today. Study the craftsmanship of early seamstress. Admire the beauty of these wonderful dresses, hats and other clothing. See how our ancestors created artistry, style and elegance in the midst of hardship and poverty.

Come and find out how to make family history fun. Laugh, cry and enjoy. Contemplate how good being dressed elegantly can make you feel. Yearn for the years when dress mattered and elegance triumphed over hardship.

Presentation

Cora has suitcases filled with clothing and other antiques from centuries ago. As she draws them out of the suitcase she tells the stories that go with each of them. She will tell and show you how corsets were worn, how hair was curled and why beautiful things were precious. She will let you examine the fine craftsmanship and delicate stitching in some of these vintage clothing.

Ask about her mothers black bloomers!

With over 100 years of clothing and stories it will be a fun event.

Bring some of your own stories and heirlooms to share. Bring your daughters. Maybe they can picture themselves in clothing other than T-shirts and jeans.

Cora Sawyer

Cora Sawyer has been giving fashion shows and heritage presentations to women's groups, retirement centers, school classes and other organizations for over 14 years. Her approach to vintage fashions is unique and refreshing.

She draws stories from her own family history and from pioneer women everywhere. She has a collection of hundreds of pieces of clothing collected from her ancestors and from generous families who know how she treasures these heirlooms

She lives in Springville, UT and works at the Provo Utah LDS Temple. She and her husband Tom enjoy their seven children and numerous grandchildren.
